Technology Park Breakfast > Invitation

The University of Ballarat Technology Park breakfast brings together information and communications technology professionals and other stakeholders from Ballarat and the broader region.

Supporting Better Health and Healthcare into the Future and the Important Role of Technology

Health is important to all Australians. Better health is an important aspiration and our ‘health system’ ranks highly internationally. The expectations of the public and the need for more interventions due to new technologies coupled with the increased burden of chronic disease (non-communicable diseases) and the general increased longevity of the population makes healthcare spending unsustainable working the way we do today.

Into the future we need engagement across the healthcare sector, connecting healthcare providers, sharing information and centrally ensuring patients are integrators of our information and the key to our own health. Technology brings this all together.

Guest Speaker: Dr Mukesh Haikerwal AO

Dr Mukesh Haikerwal is a General Medical Practitioner in Melbourne. He is the Chair of Council of the World Medical Association and was elected in May 2011 working with 100+ Member National Medical Associations (NMA).

He was awarded the Order of Australia in 2011 for distinguished service to medical administration, to the promotion of public health through leadership roles with professional organisations. He is a Professor in the School of Medicine in the Faculty of Health Sciences at Flinders University in Adelaide, South Australia. He is also a Broadband champion with the Department of Broadband, Communications and the Digital Economy, Chair of the beyondblue National Doctors’ Mental Health Program, the General Practice Data Governance committee and a Co-Chair of the Australian Asian Medical Federation. He sits on the Advisory Board of Brain Injury Australia.

He holds numerous other significant positions on national bodies aimed at progressing the advancement of healthcare.
